By adding the column called "YTD Sales vs. Budget Variance %" we can very quickly see how each customer is performing versus their budget. For example, customer #1000, your top customer, is 3% under budget.

The PULSE Sales & Marketing module lets you track sales

Application example: Your company sells products in several categories and your president want to know which product categories contribute the highest gross margin. She/he wants to use PULSE for this analysis because she/he is considering dropping the products that are poor contributors. In the sample screen below, we have sorted the list based on YTD sales dollars.

The PULSE Sales & Marketing module lets you track performance versus budget with drill-down

Application example: Your sales manager is pleased with overall sales results but she notices that margin percentages are dropping. As a result, she established bonus for each salesperson who can meet her margin goals. She wants to use PULSE to give her the ability to very quickly determine which salespeople are not meeting their margin goal. In the sample screen below, the far right column allows her to see instantly who is meeting their margin goals.

The PULSE Sales & Marketing module lets you create sales budgets.

We have included an easy to use, but very powerful budgeting screen. You can prepare your budget in Excel and import it into PULSE, you can manually key it or you can let PULSE create a draft budget which you can then refine. During the year or in subsequent years, you can adjust your budget based on a dollar amount or percentage. For example, we want to create a budget based on last year's sales plus 5% and we want to distribute the new budget among all customers based on their sales from last year. Additionally, we want to distribute our new budget equally each month or distribute it to match our seasonality.

We now offer budgeting by item, sales person, by customer, by customer and item, and by customer and ship-to location.
